L'Unit Indo-Chinoise states that the health of the expeditionary corps in Tongking has not in my way improved. At the present time there are more than 2,000 sick in the different hospitals. As it is considered that the consumption of absinthe, generally adulterated, introduced into the country has been one of the principal causes of the sickness and mortality amongst the troops, General Courcy has issued a decree orderthat so absinthe whatever shall be sold in Tongking and Annam. Anyone who sells any of the liquor after the date of the order will be proceeded against and their establishment closed. Facilities will be offered the merchants and others now holding stocks of the prescribed liquor to reexperiit at once; the duties paid upon it to be returned to the owners. Fifteen days are allowed to residents of Haiphong, Thuanan and Quinhon to clear out their stocks, and one month to the residents of all other places in the country.

The plain varies in width from 4 to 12 miles, and the length of the submerged part from North to South cannot be less than 60 miles. Near the foot of the mountains the land dips slightly, and here the worst effects of the flood are seen. Most of the villages are in ruins, the crops lost, and in many places so entire is the change which the land has undergone that it would seem impossible to recover the ground for cultivation. On the left side of the river the fields are higher, the embankments fewer and the destruction of houses and villages in the lower part of the valley less complete, though on both sides of the river the crops have perished. 2.—The extreme poverty of the people is more than ever apparent. The land is no longer flooded and more than a month has gone by since the waters retired from the higher grounds on which most of the villages stood. Yet only in five or six places had the people commenced to rebuild. They certainly would not remain without houses of some kind if they could find means to build; and it is a sad fact, which speaks for itself, that thousands romain

Since my last, the Chief Justice has sent the Governor a report of the case in the matter of the extradition of Mr Guedes, in the evidence of the plaintiff and the statements made by the defendant, he found that the charge of stealing valuable securities could not be maintained, and that it appeared that the defendant was only guilty of a breach of trust, with the mitigating circumstances that he has accepted all liabilities in a proper legal form and has given the plaintiff securities for the repayment of all monies advanced to him during a long course of years. The said time expires on Thursday next, when a definite reply will be given to the Hongkong Government, whether MrGuedes will be rendited or not. There is no reason to suppose that the Macao Government will not follow the advice of the Chief Justice in not giving up Mr Guedes, the request of At the Penk Tin Mining and Smelting the Hongkong Government being quite unprecedented and contrary to international Vice-Consul.

Surprise is generally expressed here among the legal confraternity that the charge of larceny could have been preferred against Mr Guedes, when all the circumstances of the case point clearly to one of simple breach of faith.

The valuable securities referred to were the property of Mr Guedes, on which Father Burno had only a lien, for advances madeabout 70 % on the value. Mr Guedos therefore could not have been charged with stealing what is undoubtedly his own property. In case criminal proceedings are instituted here, which, I think, will ultimately be the case, the charge will simply be that of a breach of faith.

I see that the N. C. Duily News has also come to the front in the discussion of the extradition question. The editor of that paper, or rather the writer of the article. seems to be an old China hand, for he cites the case of the Parsee Rustomies, which occurred as far back as 1863 or 1864. GENERAL GRANT

General Grant, the distinguished soldier and prominent American politician, has at last succumbed to the terrible disease with which his life had been threatened for some years. It was thought by his medical advisers that he would linger on slive until September, but he has been relieved from his fearful sufferings sooner than was expected. During his illness, the great General displayed the most cheerful resignation and bore his heavy load with the heroism of a true soldier. Lee, he prepared for a vigorous and protracted campaigu. The two armies moved early in May, and, after a series of hard-fought battles, alternating with repeated flanking movements, which the skill and tact of Gen. Les rendered abortive, Gen. Grant crossed the James River, between the 12th and 15th of June, 1864; and proceeded to lay siego to Rich mond and Petersburg from the north and north-east, while a very considerable army was cutting off their supplies, and destroying their railroads at the south and southwest. At length one railroad after another having been cut, and the two cities of Richmond and Potersburg reduced to great straits; while the army of Gen. Lee was rapidly diminishing, the last line was broken on April 2, 1865, and Les and the remnant of his army fied westward, pursued by Grant. On the 9th of April, 1865, Lee surndered with his entire command to Grant at Appoint tox Court House, Virginia. The surrender of the other armies, North Carolina, Alabama, and Texas followed soon after, and the war ouded After its close the gratitude of the people to Gen. Grant found expression in nume-

Congress having created the grade of General of the Army, hitherto unknown in tho army of the United States, he was commissioned General the same day, and Major-GeneralSherman promoted to be Licutenant General. Differing in his views from President Johnson, whose policy had alienated very many of his former friends, a coolness sprang up between the President and the Beneral: this was aggravated by the attempted removal of Secretary Stanton by the President, and still further by the nomination of Grant for the Presidency b the Republican party in May, 1868, and from that time till the close of Mr John. son's term of office, in March, 1869, their only intercourse was official. Gen. Grant was elected President in Nov., 1868, receiv ing 214 out of the 294 electoral votes of the 26 States then recognized as belonging to the Union. The Democratic National Convention also nominated Mr Greeley, although he had always been a strong opponent of the Democratic party. At the Presidential election held in Nov., 1872, Grant received 268 electoral votes, and Greeley 80. Bu reckoning by the actual votes cast for each candidate, the election was much mure close. The whole number of votes cast was 6,431,149; of these there were for Grant 3,597,070, for Greeley 2,834,079; giving for Grant a majority of 762,991. Mr Greeley died Nov. 29, 1872, just after the result of the election was evident. During the second administration of President Grant. grave difficulties arose, growing mainly out of financial questions and the disturbed condition of the South. The elections held in the autumn of 1874 resulted generally in of the Democratic party, who secured a majority in the Congressional House of Representatives, which convened in Dec., 1875, while the hitherto large Republican majority in the Senate was greatly diminished. Still Grant was by many considered the strongest candidate whom the Republicans could present at the next Prasidential term. But it has come to be a usage, almost equivalent to positive law: that no person shall be made President for more than two quadrennial terms, and Grant was not formally pressed for a renomination. Soon after the expiration of his term, on March 4, 1877, he set out

PRINCESS BEATRICE'S TROUSSEAU Have you any curiosity about the sort of trousseau a Princess has? I have seen the sketches and materials of some of Princess Beatrice's trousseau frocks, which are being made by Redfern. One is a very pretty brown and blue shot-tweed, with silk match. The shirt is of the latter, and is arranged in wide perpendicular pleats. The bodice and tunic are of the tweed, the front of the bedice being trimmed with folds of the silk, arranged fichu-fashion. A pretty little jacket to go with this gown is made of the tweed, lined with peacock-colored satin and trimmed with the shot-silk down the fronts, which are straight, though the back fits tightly to the figure.

Another nice frock is of grenat blanket cloth, the long wide pleats on the skirt being separated by folds of Ottoman silk in the same color. There is also a vest of the Ottoman, the bodice and scarf drapery being of the cloth. A jacket is made to accompany this freek, the material being the blanket cloth. It fastens from the left shoulder and is trimmed round all the outlines with fine sable.

A gown of navy-blue cloth is cut out scallops, which fall over a trimming of interlaced cardinal red braid. A similar but narrower trimming edges the tunic, which is quite short. The fronts of the bodice are scalloped ever a vest of interlaced red braid and the sleeves are flaished at the cuffs to match.

The jacket corresponding with this is or navy cloth, edged with one row of cardinal braid. A revers, turned back at the side of the chest, is lined with red silk, and a smaller revers, turned back at the right side of the basque, shows a similar lining. This is a very effective little arrangement P. and O. Company, was launched on the that famine and disease are raging and and one quite new to my experience.

A pream-colored cloth is made over akirt of pale blue veiling, being quite plain, except for a narrow pleating around the edge. The bodice of this fastens diagonally from the left shoulder by means of carved mother-of-pearl buttons. The vest and ouffe are pale blue.

Another cream-colored dress is of Cairo cloth, with pleated skirt and scarf-like tunic, made of cream-colored satio. The bodice of this gown is pleated and worn with a belt. - Truth.

Child Life in Chinese Homes. By Mrs. Bryson, of the London Mission, Wuchang, Ghina. With many illustrations. London, 1885. Published by the Religious Tract Society,

Although this book deals with Child Life, read by or to the young, yet the writer had i such an attentive and observant eye, and the peculiar characteristics of Chinese Child Life, and combines with it all such literary skill in sketching life and painting character to the life, that we teel certain, no grown-up person, even among old residents. in the East, can possibly fail to find in this book many most interesting and perfectly original observations on the subject of Chinese Child Life, set forth in a manner charming to most minds by the atter absence of affectation and unreality. The story of Child Life, here told, is full of sadness and vet relieved by a breath of hopefulness penetrating the whole and by a continual accompaniment of subtle and keen reficetion that lights up the style with a sort of Chinese lantern illumination. Even the illustrations, which accompany the letterpress sketches of Chinese Child Life, display a great deal of originality in the selection of themes, though the task of producing some thing new and fresh, in the way of illustrations of social life, is, in these days of cheap photography, a specially difficult one, The authoress begins by describing the various ceremonies and superstitions, crowding round the earliest events in the life of a Chinese haby. The dodges resorted to with a view to bamboozie malignant spirits are described with much humour. The authoress here, as throughout her whole book, writes almost entirely on the basis of actual personal observations made by herself in Wuchang. Nevertheless almost every single detail of these curiosities of nursery life, observ. ed in Wuchang, may be noticed daily among the Chinese of Hongkong and Canton, and, we dure suy, in every nook and corner of the eighteen provinces of Chian ; sogreat is the homogeneity of the various Chinese races. The vexed question of Chinese infanticide is dealt with in a simple and practical way. the authoress being evidently of opinion that infanticide in China is conflued to female children and that it is practised only at the moment of birth. The old hackneyed story of 'the baby tower, erceted outside most cities' is repeated. had it not been for your medicine she would We have no doubt such towers must be have been now dead. -- Yours, &c., though we have ourselves passed through many cities in South-China without ever scoing or hearing of the existence of one.

but we think the question of the actual extent of the area within which such baby towers are found deserves investigation. The descriptions of the buby's home, of the sights to be seen in streets and slops, of the life in school and on the play grounds, contain a good deal of most interesting reading matter. The various games played by Chinese boys are sufficiently explained and the reader is here initiated into the delightful mysteries of 'catching shrimps' (a sort of hopsootch), turning the dragon, and of the lion playing with the bail, not to forget Punch and Judy, battledore and shattleoock and kiteflying. Girls' life at home is very pathetically de- sovere cough and indigestion, with frequent scribed and the profound sense of blank and attacks of rheumatism; and for eleven conpliness, the weary sighs and feelings of months I was under medical treatment, the littleness of Chinese female life, are without deriving the slightest benefit. The very well portrayed here. The horrible last four doctors I was under assured me oracltics and sufferings councited with that mine was a hopeless case, and gave LONDON ASSURANCE CORPORATION the fashionable practice of foot-binding are, me up as incurable. There is only one chapter in the book which has not been written from actual observation, viz. a most interesting description of some stories in popular circulation as regarde the two boy-emperors of China, Tungchi and Kwangsui. For some ofour readers the following quotation may contain something of the charm of novelty. Some time ago, in the pages of the Peking Gazette, the appointment of a "whipping boy" was an-

Mary Queen of Scots.' Chinese festivals and holidays, Chinese idelatry and religious superstitions, and the various methods of teaching Chinese children, are vividly depicted, and these sketches of social life are followed by a series of sparkling biographical character-paintings of many Chinese youths of both sexes with whom the authoress was personally acquainted and whose lives afford typical illustrations of the joys and sorrows, the virtues and vices of Chinese Child Life in the various ranks and classes of the Chinese people. Of course the whole book has a great moral purpose, but the descriptions here given of Chinese social life are not loaded with the weight of it so as in any way to detract from the truthfulness and readableness of the book itself. The disease commenced with a slight dorangement of the digestion, with a poor appetito, followed by a peculiar indescribable distress in the stomach, a feeling that has been described as a faint 'all gone' sensation, a sticky slime collecting about the teeth, causing a dis- Dubon Frères & de Gernon & Co,'s agreeable taste, especially in the morning. After awhile the hands and feet became cold and sticky—a cold perspiration. There was a constant tired and languid feeling. Then followed a dreadful nervousness, with gloomy forebodings. When rising suddenly there came a dizzy feeling like vertige. After a time the bowels became costive, so that it was difficult to procure a movement without a spit up the food after enting, sometimes in a sour, fermented condition. All this derangement caused a terrible palpitation of the heart, so as to make the breathing difficult. Finally, the patient was unable to retain any food whatever, and there was constant pain in the abdomen. All prescribed remedies failing to give relief a cohsultation was held, when it was decided that the patient had a cancer in the slomuch, and, in order to save the nation's Child Life may appear, at first glance, the life; an operation was justifiable. When this had been done, an examination of the organs was such excellent opportunities of studying made, but, to the horror and dismay of the doctors, there was no cancer to be found. The patient did not have a cancer. When too late, the medical men discovered that they had made a terrible mistake. sowed the parts together and dressed the wound that they had made, but the por woman sank from exhaustion and died in a few hours. How sad it must be for the husband of this poor woman to know that his wife died from the effects of a surgical operation that ought never to have been performed. If this woman had taken the proper rounedy for dyspepsia (for this what the disease really was), she would have been living to-day. Seigel's Curative Syrup, a remedy made expressly for dyspepsis or ludigestion, has restored many such cases to perfect health after all other kinds of treatment have failed. The evidence of its efficacy in curing this class of cases is too voluminous to be published here, but those who read the publishers evidence in favour of this dyspeptic remedy do not question its convincing nature; and the article has an extensive sale. by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors

Boxholders who desire to send Circulars, Dividend Warrants, Invitations, Cards. &c., all of the same weight, to addresses in Hongkorg, Bangkok, or the Ports of China, may deliver them to the Post Office unstamped, the postage bong then charged to the sender's partent. Each batch must consist of at least an Boxholders may also send Patterns to the same places in the same way Envelopes containing Patterns may be wholly closed, if the nature of the contents be first exhibited or stated to the Postmaster General, as he may consider necessary, and approved by him. Printed Circulars may be inserted in such Pattern Packets.

PARCEIS.—The public is reminded that there is no such thing as Parcel Post to Europe, &c. Much trouble and disappointment are caused by persistent attempts to send small valuable trifles through the Post. Fans, Curios, Articles of Dress, Fancy Work, and similar presents are continually being refused, the serders having often spent more in Postage than would have paid the freight by steamer. refund can be made on such parcels of the value of Stamps obliterated before the nature of the contents was discovered.

Local and Indian Parcet L'ast 1. Small Parcels may be sent by Post at Book Rates between Hongkong and any of the British Post Offices in China, as well not exceed the following dimensions, 2 feet long, I foot broad, I foot deep, weigh more than 5fbs, nor be smaller than 3 in. by 2 p. m., Specie and Parcels until 3 p.m. on if they bear this special endorsement, If required, protection will be granted on the 5th August, 1885. (Parcels are not Parcel, containing no letter, but any lit Class Cargo Box of 8 or 900 for India a declaration of contents and value is required, a printed form for which is supplied gratis. The Registration of Parcels for India and Ceylon is compulsory. 2. The following cannot be transmitted

Parcels insufficiently packed or protected or liable to be crushed (as bandboxes &c.) Opium, Glass, Liquids, Explosive sub-stances, Matches, Indigo, Dyestuffs, Ice, Meat, Fish, Game, Fruit, Vegetables, or whatever is dangerous to the Mails, or likely to become offensive or miurious in 3. Parcels are as a general rule forwarded or Pullaway Boats, per Day, by Private Ship, not by Contract Mail Packet. To India they are forwarded by the P. & O. and Indian Mail Packets only. to Ceylon by P. & O. only. No responsibility is accepted with regard to any parcel, unless Registered, and then only to the amount of 210. 4. The publicare cautioned not to confound these facilities with a Parcet Post to Europe, &c., which does not exist.

It is necessary that the following rules be strictly observed. Hongkong, September 2, 1884. * 1475 registered of unregistered, can be received money, jewels, precious articles, or anything that, as a general rule, is liable to Customs duties. 2. This Regulation prohibits the sending of Patterns of dutiable articles, unless the quantity sont be so small as to make the sample of no value.

3. The limits of weight allowed are as Books and Papers-to British Offices, 5 lbs. ; to the Continent, &c., 4 lbs-Patterns-toBritish Offices, 5 lbs, if with, out intrinsic value; to the Continent. &c., 8 oz,

That the Postmaster General is satisfied that the loss occurred whilst the correspondence was in the custody of the British Postal administration in China, that it was Duncan, Frank not caused by any fault on the part of the Farrar, S.F.

person not in the employment of the Flynn, W. Hongkong Post Office. 5. No compensation can be paid for mere damage to fragile articles such as portraits, watches, handsomely bound books, &c. which reach-their destination, although in a broken or deteriorated condition.

Missed or Delayed Correspondence.

When correspondence has been missent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to , or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.
